FOUR NOTABLE NOVELS

Ready August 25th

THE LAST WORD

By ALICE MacGOWAN

$1.50

An intense love story—the story of a woman's heart—and such a story of the heart as has not made its appearance since the days of "Jane Eyre." The sort of book which one friend hands to another with the recommendation, "You never read anything like it—because there never was anything like it before."

COUNCILS of CROESUS

By MARY KNIGHT POTTER

Author of "Love in Art," etc.

$1.25

The latest number in the "Commonwealth Series" vivaciously pictures life in wealthy and fashionable New York society. The author is already favorably known for her clever magazine work, and the readers of the amusing "Boston Experiences" and the entertaining "Russells in Chicago" will follow with interest the fortunes of the charming heroine of "The Councils of Croesus."

Ready September 15th

BARBARA LADD

By CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS

Author of "The Kindred of the Wild," "The Heart of the Ancient Wood," etc.

Illustrated in tints by FRANK VER BECK

$1.50

A story of the Revolution and the days that ushered it; yet the war theme is subordinate to the love story and the wayward, winsome heroine, fair Mistress Barbara, whose passion for nature recalls to the mind the enchanting Miranda in "The Heart of the Ancient Wood."

HOPE LORING

By LILIAN BELL

Author of "Abroad with the Jimmies," "The Expatriates," etc.

Illustrated by FRANK T. MERRILL

$1.50

Hope Loring—wilful, unconventional, lovable—is perhaps the most charming character ever drawn by Miss Bell. The love theme is beautifully developed, and the minor characters and episodes are drawn with convincing ability.

THE LEADING JUVENILE OF THE YEAR

THE SPENDERS

15TH THOUSAND

By HARRY LEON WILSON. Six Illustrations by O'NEILL LATHAM. Price, $1.50

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL SAYS:

"If there is such a thing as the American novel of a new method, this is one. Absolutely to be enjoyed is it from the first page to the last, founded on the elemental truth that 'the man is strongest who, Antæan-like, stands with his feet upon the earth.' It is a good, stirring novel."

DOROTHY SOUTH

27TH THOUSAND

By GEORGE CARY EGGLESTON, Author of "A CAROLINA CAVALIER." Six Illustrations by C. D. WILLIAMS. Price, $1.50

BOOK NEWS FOR MAY SAYS:

"In 'Dorothy South' Mr. Eggleston has created a simple and beautiful romance, full of nobility and of all the finer emotions, wholesome, joyous, graceful, with just a slight scattering of sage but smiling philosophy intercepted by touches here and there of sparkling wit. None such woman character as Dorothy has appeared in fiction for many a long day."

JEZEBEL

A ROMANCE IN THE DAYS WHEN AHAB WAS KING. By LAFAYETTE MCLAWS, author of "When the Land was Young." Illustrated by CORWIN K. LINSON. Price, $1.50

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL SAYS:

"Jezebel is a woman of steel, true to her faith, brave as a lioness, vulnerable in only one place, her surpassing love for her husband. To give him the vineyards he desires, she has stoned to death the old Jew, Naboth, and his two sons. This makes one of the most interesting and pathetic pictures in the book."

JUDITH'S GARDEN

By MARY E. STONE BASSETT. Illustrations in Four Colors by GEORGE WRIGHT. Price, $1.50

BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE SAYS:

"It is a beautiful, idyllic story, this romance of 'Judith's Garden,' fascinating to one who loves the smell of earth, and who finds Mother Nature and her children the most satisfying of friends."

CHANTICLEER

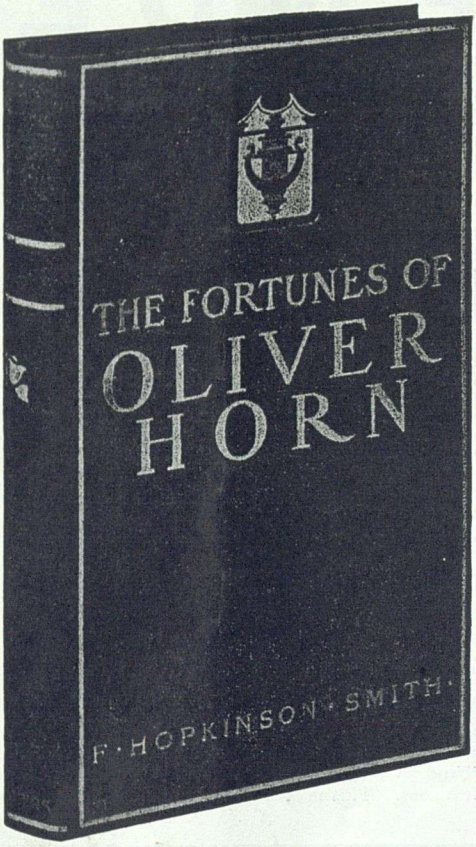
By VIOLETTE HALL. Eight Three-color Illustrations. Three by W. GRANVILLE SMITH. Price, $1.50

This is an idyll of modern life. Roger and Mary, happily mated, lose by fire their house with its belongings. They create a simple but adequate camping-place in the rural solitude. A love story of charming sweetness develops. The book will appeal to lovers of nature, and also to all men and women who like a good romance.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY, BOSTON

THIS should prove the popular novel of the season

The Author's Longest Completest and Most Ambitious Novel



Beautifully Illustrated by WALTER APPLETON CLARK

THE chief part of the novel deals with the career of an artist in New York, and so gives Mr. Smith the opportunity to picture the artistic and literary life of New York during the last thirty-five years, with the atmosphere and environment of which he has been so thoroughly familiar. To the telling of the story he brings the powers of humor and pathos that he has shown in his other well-known novels.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "An Elementary Commercial Geography," by Cyrus K. Adams, giving particular emphasis to improved transportation, the application of steam power, and the progress in chemical science as the main factors in the present development of progress and industry.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS are bringing out F. Hopkinson Smith's "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn," which has had such great success in its serial career. The chief part of the book deals with the career of an artist in New York, and this gives the artist-author the opportunity to picture the artistic and literary side of New York which he knows so well. Humor, pathos and a great knowledge of human nature are Mr. Smith's well-known gifts. The book is illustrated by Walter Appleton Clark.

LOTHROP PUBLISHING CO. announce two striking new novels in "Richard Gordon," a story of New York social and political life, by Alexander Black; and "Eagle Blood," by James Creelman, the veteran journalist, who tells the story of a young Englishman who becomes a journalist in the United States and later a war correspondent in the Philippines, and is involved in a chain of stirring adventures. It is stated that H. L. Wilson's novel, "The Spenders," published by this house in June, is now in its twentieth thousand.

L. C. PAGE & Co. will publish on August 25 "The Last Word," by Alice McGowan, the story of a woman's heart which challenges comparison with "Jane Eyre;" "Councils of Croesus," by Mary Knight Potter, a novel of fashionable New York society; "Barbara Ladd," by Charles G. D. Roberts, a story of the days of the Revolution; and "Hope Loring," by Lilian Bell, the story of a wilful, unconventional, lovable heroine. On the same day they will issue their leading juvenile for the coming holiday season, the sequel of "Beautiful Joe," by Marshall Saunders, which is entitled "Beautiful Joe's Paradise," and is said to bubble over with gay spirits and fantastic humor that will appeal especially to all lovers of animals. Dickens's "Child's Dream of a Star" takes its place in the Cosy Corner Series; and The Little Cousin Series for 1902 will instruct young minds about the Filipinos, the Cubans, the Eskimos, the Porto Ricans and African young people.

THE SAALFIELD PUBLISHING COMPANY have entered the autumn field with a captivating array of new juveniles. These include "Billy Whiskers," by Frances T. Montgomery, telling the amusing adventures of a pet goat; "A Redman of Quality," a stirring tale of Indian adventure, by Edward Everett Billings; "Animal Life in Rhyme and Jingles," by Elizabeth May; "The Mother Goose Paint Book," a novel painting book, with ready-to-use paint box attached; "The Little Woman in the Spout," by Mary Agnes Byrne, who writes of school-girl days; and "In a Car of Gold," an Alice-in-Wonderland tale of a trip to Mars. Other new juveniles include a variety of titles, by Harry Castlemon, Charles P. Chipman, Mary E. Ireland, Mary Denison and others. This house has a number of striking books for grown readers. There is Murat Halstead's "Life of Theodore Roosevelt," fully illustrated and brought closely up to date; and recent novels include Maurus Jokai's volume of weird tales; "Told by the Death's Head;" "Poco a Poco," William Franklin Johnson's novel of American Life; "In the Days of St. Clair," a romance of pioneer Ohio, by Dr. James Ball Naylor; and "The Invisibles," a romance by E. Earl Christopher. "Seeds of April's Sowing" is a little volume of verse by Adah Louise Sutton.

Adams, Cyrus Cornelius, ed. An elementary commercial geography. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [Jl.] c. 12+351 p. il. maps, D. cl., $1.10.

The approval given to the author's "Text-book of commercial geography" has encouraged the preparation of this smaller book, which, it is hoped, will meet the needs of a large number of students who complete their school drill in the grammar grades. The author has attempted to give, simply and broadly, a view of the world in its relation to man as a producer and a trader. The natural laws of trade are made easily understandable.

"This book is an attempt to present the life of Thomas Cromwell as a statesman, and to estimate his work without religious bias. Though it would certainly be difficult to overrate his importance in the history of the Church of England, I, [the author] maintain that the motives that inspired his actions were invariably political, and that the many ecclesiastical changes carried through under his guidance were but incidents of his administration, not ends in themselves."—Preface.

Since Napier's "Peninsular war" was published some sixty years ago, an enormous bulk of valuable material has been accumulating in English, French, and Spanish, which has practically remained unutilized. New matter and a new interpretation of many events are the principal qualities of this exhaustive work.

CHANGING TRAVELLERS.

CHANGING travellers from season to season is a mistake, and so is transferring them to different sections after acquaintance has once been formed. It is a great mistake also—often made by the man himself—to change houses as frequently as some do, often for some trivial cause, more frequently for no other reason than to make a change. There are a few things to be learned sooner or later by every bumptious young man who considers himself just a shade better qualified to judge of business affairs and what is to the interest of the business than his employer, even if he has had the extended experience of a first trip. One of these things is that few men are discharged without some just cause. If he is discharged he may be able to persuade the friends that he has made to accept his side of the story; when he makes a second change his friends may begin to suspect that some of the fault may lie with him; while the third time, even if this time he may be entirely without blame, he is apt to be left out in the cold. Here the rule applies: Be sincere. Don't try to fool your constituents, because they will not be fooled—at least not all the time. An average collection of men can usually tell the difference between an honest man and a pretender. The test of a man in business is whether he is honest or not—conscientiously, broadly honest, we mean, not alone honest in the legal sense of the word. No dishonest man can pass through the world for any length of time undetected, nor will the honest man be long mistaken for a fakir.

Besides being honest a traveller must aim to be cheerful and optimistic. He has many hardships to put up with, many trials to undergo, many unpleasant duties to perform—all who have had experience on the road know that and are ready to admit it—but that is no reason why he should add to his misery and to the discomfort of his employers, his customers and his friends, by complaining and making himself disagreeable. Nor will it help him any to change his berth, if his relations with his employers are agreeable, because the conditions against which he has to contend remain unchanged no matter under which flag he elects to fight.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

156 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK, August 12, 1902.

To the Trade:

IN entering upon the second fall season since the establishment of protected prices we beg leave to call attention to the fact that with few exceptions prices are well maintained throughout the United States. The general satisfaction attending the working of the new system has been marked, and dealers everywhere are looking forward so hopefully to a business season under conditions which afford them reasonable return for their capital and labor, that little thought is given to the fact that there are still a few undersellers.

The only danger in this situation is that in some instances vigilance may be so far relaxed as to permit the chief underseller to secure stock where he has hitherto failed, and it is to prevent this that we are addressing the trade at this time. The fact should not be lost sight of that the underseller referred to is still active, and although it may appear that less importance attaches to his attitude as time passes, it is still necessary to prevent him so far as possible from securing stock.

While he has managed to secure many of the new books his general stock is practically nothing, and it is only by a stretch of the imagination that he can be called a dealer in books. His efforts to secure stock in bulk have been so frequently baffled that at present he is picking up books in lots of five and ten copies each of small dealers, and for this purpose has enlisted the services of one or two commission men who are well known in the book business.

These agents have appeared in the West as well as in New England and the Middle States, but dealers should have no difficulty in recognizing them, and if this Association is given proper support few books will be procured in this way. Should such an agent try to arrange for the purchase of books kindly send us his name and we will undertake to see that his future usefulness is seriously interfered with. In this we shall have the hearty support of the dealers of the country, as they will hardly be willing to purchase of a salesman, no matter what his line is, who is so regardless of their interest as to give assistance to the underseller.

It is possible also that during the fall the underseller may try to buy in quantity through "dummy" dealers as he has done before with more or less success, but we believe that the publishers and jobbers in the light of the experience of the past year and a half can be relied on to frustrate these attempts, and if the smaller dealer will do his part well the underseller's prospect for a fall stock is not considered bright.

With hearty congratulations on the success of the undertaking, we are

Yours very truly,

OBITUARY NOTES.

ORRIN S. COOK, who for fifteen years has held a responsible position with Silver, Burdett & Co., died at his home in Chicago on July 30. The publishers send us this word, and write very appreciatively of Mr. Cook's work for education and his personal characteristics, which had earned him many friends throughout the trade.

GEORGE DALZIEL, the founder of the firm of engravers known throughout the world as the "Dalziel Brothers," died in England, on Monday, August 4, at the advanced age of eighty-seven. George Dalziel, the son of Alexander Dalziel, an artist of Wooler, Northumberland, was born on December 1, 1815. For over half a century the Dalziel Brothers were in the first rank of London engravers, but the popular introduction of the various processes of reproducing illustrations by photographic means almost banished wood engraving, and in 1893 George Dalziel and his brother retired from the concern which by their skill and enterprise they had successfully created and maintained. Mr. George Dalziel possessed considerable literary gifts, and several volumes of poems and short stories by him have been published from time to time.

DR. LEOPOLD SCHENK, author of the epoch-making book "Determination of Sex," died at Vienna, on August 18. Dr. Schenk was born at Ilemeny, Hungary, on August 23, 1840. He was for many years regarded as an authority in physiology and embryology, and for twenty-three years was director of the Embryological Institute in Vienna. In 1898 Dr. Schenk astonished the scientific world by announcing that he had discovered the secret of sex, and that it could be regulated by diet on the part of the mother. He was much opposed and finally forced to resign his position. He claimed to the last that his theory was proved by many cases trusted to his surveillance. Dr. Schenk was the author of "Handbook of Histology," "Handbook of Comparative Embryology of Vertebrate Animals," "A Contribution to the Theory of Artificial Trout Culture," "The Influence of Color on the Development of the Life of Animals," "On Micro-organism," and a two-volume work, "History of Evolution." Besides these Professor Schenk wrote a great number of scientific treatises on physiology and embryology.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

HENRY DEMAREST LLOYD, well known as a champion of socialistic doctrines, has spent most of the summer in Europe, arranging for the translations into French, Italian and German of his books "Wealth against Commonwealth," "Newest England," and "A Country without Strikes."

EDMUND GOSSE is now engaged in writing a history of English literature, and in connection with that fact there is revived the story of Mr. Gosse's application for the place of Clark lectures, at Trinity College, Cambridge. There were many candidates and each handed in a host of testimonials from more or less famous men of letters. Gosse presented only three testimonials, but those three were written by Matthew Arnold, Alfred Tennyson and Robert Browning. He was appointed.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co. have just ready a new volume of stories of Jewish life, by Herman Bernstein, entitled "In the Gates of Israel," and a novel of American life, called "The Heart of Woman," by Harry W. Desmond.

Collier's Weekly will make its issue of September 6 a "Labor Day number," of 28 pages, devoted mainly to a "Labor Review," covering the various fields of industry, and prepared by leading representatives of the great national labor bodies. It will have a striking special cover, designed by Leyendecker.

John Bull is a new English comic weekly, intended in a measure as a rival to Punch, which, however, has little cause to fear competition in its own historic field. Arthur a' Beckett, son of the comic historian of England, and for nearly thirty years on the staff of Punch, is the editor. The title John Bull has been used before in this connection, notably by Theodore Hook, who founded a paper of that name in 1820.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will issue this month a lower-priced and more compact edition of Lavignac's "Music and Musicians," edited by H. E. Krehbril, which they have already printed three times in their large-paper edition.

GRAPHOLOGY PUBLISHING CO., 503 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, call attention to Dr. Von Hagen's book, "Reading Character from Handwriting," which offers proof for the claim that handwriting is a reliable index to the most complex points of character.

GINN & Co. have added to their list of textbooks two new volumes—"The Advanced First Reader," by Ellen M. Cyr, and "Towards the Rising Sun," the fourth volume in the Youth's Companion Series of geographical readers. A special feature of the new Cyr reader is the series of excellent reproductions of famous paintings, engraved on wood by Henry Wolf.

L. C. PAGE & Co. have added to the popular series Little Pilgrimages "Literary Boston of To-day," by Helen M. Winslow, whose book "Concerning Cats" was received with marked favor; and "The Sandman: His Farm Stories," by William J. Hopkins, who puts before childish minds much valuable information on food products and all the endless detail that fills a farmer's life.

ELDER & SHEPARD, San Francisco, have in press an essay by Dr. David Storr Jordan on "The Philosophy of Despair." Dr. Jordan takes for his text certain quatrains from Omar Khayyam, among them the lines beginning "I come like water and like wind I go," and aims to give the reply of science to pessimism, striking a note of courage and common sense in his treatment of "the riddle of life."

HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY announce a new book by Carolyn Wells, called "Folly in the Forest." This is a fantasia of mythology for children, abounding in humorous touches and at the same time giving acquaintance with some of the most famous characters of myth and legend. Pegasus, the Sphinx, the Geese that saved Rome, Poe's Raven, are some of the creatures that meet and desport themselves with "Folly" in the Forest of the Past.

THE JACOBSEN PUBLISHING COMPANY Chicago, have prepared an important volume devoted to "Modern American Tanning." It is made up of original articles describing modern methods first printed in Hide and Leather, and written by well-known tannery experts and chemists, and it is a thorough exposition of the new processes and developments that have so completely revolutionized the leather industry within recent years. The volume contains over two hundred and fifty pages and many illustrations.

THE YOUNG CHURCHMAN CO., Milwaukee, have issued the fourth thousand of "The Truth of Christianity," compiled by Major W. H. Turton, of the Royal Engineers; "Catholic Principles as illustrated in the doctrine, history and organization of the American Catholic Church in the United States commonly called the Protestant Episcopal Church," by Rev. Frank N. Westcott; and "Urbs Beata," a vision of the "Perfect Life," by Herbert Cushing Tolman, with a commendatory by the Bishop of Milwaukee.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have nearly ready an important contribution to the literature of African exploration. This is Dr. Carl Peters's account of his archæological expedition of 1899-01 to "The Eldorado of the Ancients," the Ophir of ancient davs, which he believes he has now proved to be the country between Zambesi and Sabi. The ancient ruins and gold and copper mines discovered there, together with the many adventures of the explorers, are fully described in the volume, which will also contain many illustrations by Tennyson Cole, who accompanied the expedition.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish this fall a most entertaining volume in "Memoirs of a Contemporary." This is the narrative of the experiences of a French woman, who donned man's clothes and followed Marshal Ney in the French Army during the Napoleonic wars. It is translated and edited by Lionel Strachey, and is said to abound with vivid and intimate accounts of Napoleon and his generals and of many of the prominent figures of the First Empire. The illustrations will be reproduced from old prints. They have now in preparation "The Wooing of Judith," a romance of early Virginia, by Sara Beaumont Kennedy; and a little volume of poems, by Ellen Glasgow, to be luxuriously printed by De Vinne.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish in the early autumn two volumes of essays by the late John Fiske, hitherto unpublished, which were completed and made ready for the press before Mr. Fiske's death. Among the subjects dealt with in these essays are Thomas Hutchinson, the last royal governor of Massachusetts; Charles Lee, Alexander Hamilton, Andrew Jackson, Daniel Webster, John Milton and "Reminiscences of Huxley." The next volume to appear in the English Men of Letters Series will be Herbert Paul's study of Matthew Arnold. Owen Wister's brilliant story of the West, "The Virginians," is proving among the most popular of this season's books. A second edition was called for within three days of publication.

D. APPLETON & Co. have a most interesting number of books in hand for early fall publication. "The Letters of Charles Darwin," edited by his son, Francis Darwin, will be a notable addition to the biography and to the literature of science. Fiction will include Sir Gilbert Parker's new novel, "Donovan Pasha;" "The Sea Lady," an extravaganza with a matter-of-fact present-day setting, by H. G. Wells; "A Whaleman's Wife," by F. T. Bullen; and John Oliver Hobbes's new volume, "Tales About Temperaments." The latter, by the way, does not consist wholly of tales, but includes two one-act plays, both of which were successfully produced on the stage. They are "A Repentance," brought out at the St. James Theatre, in London, and "Journeys End in Lovers' Meetings," written for and acted by Ellen Terry.

BAKER & TAYLOR will publish this fall a compilation of coffee history, coffee anecdotes and coffee verse, including recipes for the making of coffee from the leading chefs of the country, by Arthur H. Gray, one of the collaborateurs of "Bath Robes and Bachelors" and a contributor to "Tobacco in Song and Story." There will be a trade edition neatly bound and with a striking cover, and a novel gift edition bound in heavy coffee-colored ooze leather, stamped in gold and done up in a coffee sack of rough bagging, tied at the corners and labelled. This firm has also in preparation an attractive edition of the Rolfe Shakespeare, isued through arrangement with the American Book Co. The volumes will be bound in olive green limp leather binding, with decorated title-pages in two colors, and will be suitable for class use or for the private library.
